

For immediate release
January 25, 2019

Attorney received PBA Pro Bono Award

Lebanon Attorney Corey Lamoureux, of the law firm of Reilly Wolfson, recently received the Pennsylvania Bar Association's William H. G. Warner Pro Bono Attorney of the Year during a meeting of the Lebanon County Bar Association.

"We are so grateful for the time that Attorney Lamoureux and other Lebanon County attorneys have spent helping our clients," said MidPenn Legal Services Executive Director Rhodia Thomas. "We also appreciate all the firms that generously encourage their attorneys to volunteer their time."

The annual award, named for the late William H.G. Warner, Esq., recognizes an attorney who is committed to providing legal services to the public and to helping to make Pro Bono legal service what it is today in Lebanon County.

In Lebanon County, about 60 local attorneys annually provide Pro Bono service to more than 300 clients in support of MidPenn Legal Services, in the following types of cases: Custody, Divorce, Unemployment Compensation, Bankruptcy, Child Support, and Protection from Abuse.

Pictured from left are: MidPenn Legal Services Executive Director Rhodia Thomas, Lebanon Attorney Corey Lamoureux, winner of the 2018 Pennsylvania Bar Association's William H. G. Warner Pro Bono Attorney of the Year Award and MidPenn Legal Services Managing Attorney Nick Matash.

Lebanon County Bar Association/Lebanon County Legal Journal

547 South Tenth Street, Lebanon Pennsylvania 17042

Phone: 717.273.3113 Fax: 273.3211 lebcobar@verizon.net www.lebanoncountybar.org